Ward Refuses To Be Drawn Into Fray

By DREW VON BERGEN
United Press International
FRANKFORT, Ky. (UP) — State Highway Commissioner Henry Ward refused to be drawn into an inter-party battle with Senate Majority Leader J. D. Jess Bueckman over Ward's activities as a likely candidate for the 1967 Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Bueckman Monday asked Gov. Edward T. Breathitt to demand Ward's resignation as highway chief, claiming he was hiding behind the Hatch Act and was placing the state in jeopardy of losing federal road funds.

Ward refused to be drawn into the fray, saying he was not a candidate for governor. "Anybody can check and find out what I'm doing, my job as highway commissioner," he said.

In Bueckman's letter to Breathitt, he said Ward was hiding behind the Hatch Act in his attempt to gain the Democratic nomination. "The act forbids federal funds to be used for political purposes," Ward is believed by many political observers to have the inside track for the personal endorsement of Breathitt.

"It is common knowledge that the Frankfort kingmakers have picked Henry Ward to be their candidate for governor," Bueckman said in his letter to the governor.

He added that Ward's alleged political activity placed the state in a position of losing federal road funds.

Bueckman is one of two announced candidates for the nomination. The other is former Gov. A. B. Chandler. Several others have been mentioned as possible candidates.

Company Sends Notice To Local Employees

Mrs. Violet Johnson of Murray is in receipt of a notice from Imperial Reading Corporation, owner of the clothing plant which left Murray, in which the company indicates that it will not perform any acts which would constitute interference, restraint or coercion, in violation of section 8 (a) (1) of the act.

Several points are listed in the notice in which the company indicated that it would in no way interfere with the activities of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America AFL-CIO, which could be interpreted as in violation of the National Labor Relations Act.

The notice indicated that employees of the company are free to become or remain or refrain from becoming members of the union.

The company left Murray shortly after attempts were made to organize the plant.

Governor Is Final Speaker On New Constitution

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt told Murray State University students this morning that the proposed state Constitution gives local units of government greater, not lesser, degrees of control compared to the present 1891 document.

The amount of local unit control has become a major battlefield in the constitutional campaign. Opponents of the new law contend it takes power away from local government and places it in Frankfort. Breathitt said local units of government, under the 1966 charter, would be authorized to do all things under home rule which are not specifically denied by the constitution or by law.

"Counties may be consolidated, and cities and counties may be consolidated with each other, but only after a vote of the people in the counties affected," the governor said.

He added that local government may adopt any democratic form of government agreeable to their own people. "Surely these provisions are progressive, democratic, and flexible, and suited to the needs of an increasingly urban area," Breathitt said.

Breathitt emphasized that the constitution does not permit local officers to be appointed by the governor or by anyone else in Frankfort. He said it specifically guarantees that the chief executive and the legislative body of every city, county and other local unit of government must be elected by the local voters and by no one else.

"All local officers must be chosen by local authority — not in Frankfort," he restated.

"The governor noted that the proposed constitution does not, as does the 1891 Constitution, spell out the title of every local officer and make him a constitutional officer. The present constitutional officers are kept in violation for the present term and for one additional term, he told the students.

"Beyond that, it was felt that changing times and changing circumstances might create a situation where some change in existing county officers would prove wise or necessary," Breathitt added.

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

With the Labor Department of the United States government so completely in favor of labor unions, we think it is only fair that the government form a new cabinet post and call it the govern- ment. Somebody ought to take up for the poor guy.

All he does is invest every dime to his name, and try to make a profit in spite of all the govern- ment regulations he has to live under.

In addition to supplying jobs for untold thousands, the guy who owns the business also has to collect social security taxes for the government, collect income taxes for the government, collect sales taxes for the state, collect sales taxes for the state, and then to add insult to injury he has to fork over an equal amount of the social security taxes out of his profit.

He not only does not get paid for doing all this, but if he refuses, he has a berth waiting for him in the Federal penitentiary.

In addition to all the above, he also has to take up Workman's Compensation Insurance. If he (Continued On Page Three)

Rev. Thomas W. Vaughn Finds Enjoyment As Well As Recognition In His Second Career

The following story appeared in the current issue of The Record, a paper by the Episcopal Church Diocese of Michigan. It concerns Rev. Thomas W. Vaughn, grandson of Mrs. R. L. Wade of Murray, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Vaughn of Pontiac, Mich., formerly of this area. The feature story was written by Rev. F. Plummer Whipple.

and if you don't know those names, you're simply not aware of the wonderful world of jazz.

On Wed. July 6, Fr. Vaughn was to appear on Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show on NBC, and during this time feature articles on the Michigan priest appeared in the New York Daily News and the New York Times.

On August 7 Detroit area jazz fans will have the chance to hear Fr. Vaughn as the feature act of the Detroit Jazz Festival at Cobo Hall, while in September he is scheduled for an appearance at the Monterey Jazz Festival at Carmel-by-the-Sea in California — the West Coast's equivalent of the Newport Festival. His second album for RCA Victor will be released in January, 1967.

30 IN OCTOBER

Quite a schedule for a priest who won't be 30 years old until October!

There's quite a story in this young man. While his jazz in-jazz appears to be blossoming all at once it is really a matter of years of preparation, of developing a distinctive style while studying for what he considers his true vocation — the priesthood. Let's take it from the top:

Farm Bureau Board Meets

With Senatorial Candidates

by Tevis Bennett

The Kentucky Farm Bureau Board of Directors held a "Measure-the-Candidate" meeting with the senatorial candidates, John Sherman Cooper and John Young Brown, Thursday, August 4, and Friday, August 5, at the state Farm Bureau office in Louisville.

The purpose of the meeting was to give the candidates an opportunity to hear the members of the Farm Bureau Board of Directors explain the organization's position on important legislative matters and to give the candidates a chance to make a statement.

The candidates were given a list of questions concerning the issues covered by the board members and were asked to submit in writing, at a later date, answers to the questions. The answers to the questions will be published in the October issue of the Kentucky Farm Bureau News, the official publication of the organization.

Some of the important issues discussed at the meeting included general farm programming, tobacco, check-offs for agricultural promotion, natural resources, trade policy, and agricultural exports, fiscal affairs, federal domination, reapportionment, labor policy, education, welfare and social security. This meeting is a good example of the important phases of the overall programming at the Kentucky Farm Bureau. It not only helps the candidates to understand the organization's policy better, but it gives each member of the state board of directors and Farm Bureau members a chance to learn more about the candidate's stand on vital agricultural issues.

BROADEN COVERAGE

WASHINGTON — The American Psychological Association believes the nation's health insurance industry should broaden its coverage in the mental health field to include fees for psychotherapists.

In a booklet made public during the western, the organization said that when the insurance companies "single out one profession—medicine and ignore another—psychology for reimbursement they are inadvertently but nevertheless effectively, acting in the role of a licensing or regulatory body."

"Yet, under some present insurance plans, an M. D. who has had little psychiatric training may give psychiatric or psychological help and receive reimbursement, while a psychologist trained for years in his specialty is denied such recognition."

SEEN &amp; HEARD

has any money in the bank, the state taxes this in addition to the income tax.

The owner of a business, as if all the above was not enough, also has to suffer the indignity of utter strangers coming into his place of business and pawing through his records to make sure he is not violating some screwy law or social regulation.

In the eyes of the Federal government the business man is a crook, a liar and a cheat, and must be constantly checked and rechecked and spied on, even though he is the one person in the United States who provides jobs by the millions to keep the phony social programs financed.

The Federal government is telling the business man that he cannot discriminate in the selection of his employees, that he cannot protect himself from power hungry labor unions, while on the other hand they urge business to expand and to provide more jobs.

The average business man is fully aware of the fact that whether he makes a profit or not depends on his own management, not on a subsidy from the Federal government.

When he invests his good money in a business he has no earthly idea whether that business will succeed or fail. He does not know whether he will reap benefits or lose everything.

He lives with a gamble and constantly encroaching control of the Federal government.

We read just this week that the man who hands out the Federal hospital money smugly announced that there is not a hospital in the nation which can survive unless it knuckles down to Federal discipline. His reason was simple: newly every hospital in the nation has dipped into the Federal treasury and as a result it is trapped by the strings which are attached. They have to obey these regulations whether they want to or not.

Why then does the business man continue to take this gamble and try to make a profit in the face of all these obstacles?

We think the answer must be in the very spirit which has made this nation great. The spirit which is indomitable, the spirit which calls for independence and freedom. No matter how large the business or how small, one achieves the feeling that he is standing on his own two feet.

Then too, there is always the hope that some day an administration will be elected which will recognize that America was built on the free enterprise system and will create a climate favorable to business expansion.

We think the greatest friend labor has today is the business man who signs the pay checks.

HENRY COUNTY

Lakes Park will be dumped in the lap of the northern entrance in Kentucky.

"At present, we simply don't have a chance to get the business of the six or seven million guests per year who will visit the park but will prefer not to use its camp-out and other outdoor facilities," he explained.

"These people could, as soon as the highway is built, be patronizing motels, restaurants, filling stations, sporting good stores and all our other service establishments in Stowitt, Henry, and several other Tennessee counties," he said.

Neese, who was an administration opponent during the last legislature and vigorously opposed the ripping of Henry County from the Seventh Congressional District and its diversion to the Eighth District, said that this entire end of West Tennessee and western Middle Tennessee has not been "just neglected, but has been positively victimized by state and federal highway allocations for many years."

"Our access to Kentucky Lake in gravel, often badly washed secondary road. We have a federal highway, U.S. 641, running 10 miles due south of Paris, dead-ending, and only two months ago bringing the death of three teenagers," Neese said.

"We have U.S. 79 from Paris to Clarksville, unimproved, full of the most dangerous curves, and nothing done about it for years and years," he said.

"I understand that the federal authorities studied that something be done about U.S. 79 and that something is in the works," Neese said.

William Hollingsworth, who owns a garage at the dead-end of U.S. 641 in southern Henry County, said yesterday that five accidents, the last one causing three fatalities, have taken place at this dead-end in the past two years.

"A big dead-end sign finally was erected only two months ago, and the next day somebody put up a Clement campaign sign," Hollingsworth said.

"This is far and away the best federal highway in Henry County," Hollingsworth said, "but it doesn't go anywhere. For two years it has just set and nobody can use it, because the route calls for a highway from Evansville, Ind., to Interstate 40."

"Indiana and Kentucky have built their links and Tennessee has built 9.7 miles of beautiful road, wide and well graded from the Paris city limits to my garage. We want it to go clear through to I-40. That way, we can move at least some of the I-40 traffic that would have gone to between the Lakes Park by I-24 up to the Tennessee end of the park," he said.

"I don't have any hopes at all that anything will be done about this unless there is a change in the governor's office in Nashville. As far as I know, there are not any big or important politicians living along this route of this highway, but, once built, it would produce tremendous commercial and tourist revenues," Hollingsworth said.

through to him. By the age of 16 he was a semi-pro and by 19 was a professional, working in night clubs and playing other dates.

But the glamorous and lucrative field of show business did not become his main interest. In his undegraduate days at Eureka his chief interests were in the study of theology, philosophy and logic.

When he reached Yale, he made the decision about his vocation.

"This is not so surprising," he says. "I was brought up in a religious, God-centered family, and I am sure my mother and grandmother always dreamed of my becoming a minister."

MINISTRY COMES FIRST
Will his new career in jazz become so attractive and so demanding that it will threaten his ministry?

"My ministry comes first," says Fr. Vaughn. "I love people and I love the pastoral ministry. I see no conflict. It's quite possible that my music is one form of ministry. I would hope that my music may help to break the stereotype some people hold about the minister belonging solely in the church. If I can help show people that a minister is also in their world as fully as they are, I'll feel I've made a rather important contribution."

At St. John's, Midland, Fr. Vaughn carries a full ministry. One of his responsibilities is direction of the youth program and in this he shows great aptitude. He estimates the St. John's youth program actively attracts 95 percent of the youth of the church.

Last year and again this spring Fr. Vaughn gave two jazz concerts before capacity audiences in Midland, using the proceeds to take St. John's youth groups on extensive tours of the East.

DEVELOPES STYLE
How does he characterize his style and what jazz players were the greatest influence on him?

"I would say that my style is a hard-driving, blues-oriented style," says Fr. Vaughn. "It was developed in the years before I signed with Victor. I suppose Oscar Peterson and George Shearing were chief influences on my developing style, although, of course, there are others. I also have great interest in composing."

Currently Fr. Vaughn is working with two Detroit jazz men — Dan Jordan, bassist, and Dick Rudman, drummer — come into Detroit when he can to rehearse with them.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Vaughn, his parents, still live in Pontiac. Tom has four sisters, aged 7 to 24. In 1967 he married Beverly Thomas of Auburn Heights, and they have three children, Sheila, four, and a half year; Tommy, two; and Angela, eight months.

So, meet Father Thomas Vaughn, an Episcopal priest who happens to be a great jazz pianist.

Charlotte Dodson Complimented With Household Shower

Miss Charlotte Ann Dodson, August 31st bride-elect of Billy Joe Hodge, was complimented with a miscellaneous household shower at the home of Mrs. James Armstrong at 405 South 16th Street, on Friday evening, July 29.

The gracious hostesses for the lovely occasion were Mesdames Joe Pat James, Robert Glig Jeffrey, Joe Pat Ward, Bobby McDowell, and Annabauer.

The guests signed the bride's book that was placed in the entrance hall of the home where the honoree, her mother, Mrs. William E. Dodson, and her mother-in-law to be, Mrs. George A. Hodge, Jr., greeted them as they arrived.

Miss Dodson chose to wear from her trousseau an olive green shift trimmed in white lace and was presented a gaudy corsage by the hostesses. Her new lace veil was a white two piece dress and her mother-in-law to be was attired in an off white two piece dress with embroidered orange trimming.

They were both presented corsages of white carnations by the hostesses.

Games were played with Mrs. Ed Perton and Mrs. John Sammons being the recipients of the prizes who presented them to the honoree.

The bride-elect opened her many gifts which had been placed on the shelves in the family room of the home. Mrs. James assisted and formed the boys in to a wedding bouquet. The hostesses' wedding gift was an electric skillet.

Refreshments were served from the beautifully appointed table overlaid with her new lace cloth over olive green and centered with an arrangement of white daisies and stock and yellow chrysanthemums flanked by yellow candles in crystal holders. White cake squares decorated with a yellow rose bud, lime punch, coffee, nuts, and mints were served in the crystal and silver appointments.

Forty-five persons were present or sent gifts.

BAD FOOD

BEERSHEBA, Israel (AP) — Nearly 100 persons were treated for food poisoning Monday after they became ill at a local eatery's party celebrating the birth of his daughter.

A health official said the cream in the fillings of cakes served at the party had gone bad.

Neighbors Talk the Main Concern

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In 1965 I married Bob (not his real name) in the Catholic church. I was born a Catholic and Bob was a convert. We had two boys. For reasons which I shall not go into, we were divorced in 1961. I then married Bill (also not his real name) at a civil ceremony by a justice of the peace, but we lived together only seven months and were divorced. Bob has started to come around again.

We have a lot to talk about because of the boys, etc. so sometimes he stays all night, or for the weekend. The neighbors' mouths are going a mile a minute. Since our religion does not recognize divorce, we are still married in the eyes of the church. Right? So, are we doing anything wrong?

TALKED ABOUT: DEAR TALKED ABOUT: It's not the eyes of the church you are concerned about — it's the mouths of your neighbors. Talk to your priest. He will tell you what's wrong with using your religion to suit your own convenience.

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me how to get rid of a telephone pest? This woman calls me every night when I get home from work because she wants someone to talk to besides her three-year-old son. (She's a divorcee) She has no husband or outside interests. Her only friend moved out of town last year, and she has cultivated no new ones. I am her only "in-law" and she borrows me to death with her small talk.

I finally had to ask her to please quit calling me at work, so now she catches me at home in the evenings. Once she gets me on the line I can't get away from her. I have run out of excuses. Lately I

The tobacco section of the Division of Markets is preparing to issue its second annual "Kentucky Tobacco Market Report." Our tobacco specialist, E. T. Reed working in cooperation with various groups engaged in the industry, has compiled what I think to be an excellent report.

It presents in a concise manner various facts about the 1965 crop—growing conditions, quality, and market reports. Statistics on such things as allotments, county by county production, and sales reports on the different markets are included.

The publication will be available for distribution in about three weeks. Copies will be available at the tobacco booth at the Kentucky State Fair.

This year's Kentucky Junior Herdbook Association Field Day was a successful event. Highway Herd Farm, Dover, owned by E. A. Boyd, Buck Boyd, and Charles Boyd, was the host. The Boyds have a fine herd of cattle on their Mason County farm. They made extensive efforts to entertain those attending the field day.

Robert Botkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Botkin, Lexington, won the fine registered heifer for "highest in the judging contest." Other contests centering around cattle selection, feeding, growing and handling were also held.

The Herdbook Association is doing a good job of promotion, and I feel that its members are to be commended for their work with young people. The Boyds also do a fine job of production. Buck is a member of the State Board of Agriculture and is a strong supporter

GENERAL MISSING

TOKYO (AP) — Sinologists speculated today that Communist Chinese Joint Chief of Staff Gen. Lo Jui Ching has been fired.

Confirmation of the theory was not possible, but sinologists here based their belief on the fact Lo made no appearance or speech during the Red Chinese army's 38th anniversary celebrations Monday in Peking.

The general was the keynote speaker at last year's anniversary but has made no public appearance or been mentioned in the Chinese Communist press since last November.

of programs for beef cattle.

Dr. Irwin Erickson, chief staff veterinarian of the USDA Animal Health Division, was highly commended of Kentucky's livestock sanitation progress during a recent visit to the State. He was especially pleased with the success of the market cattle testing program, commonly called "backtagging."

Under the backtagging method a tag is placed on animals sent to market for slaughter. A blood sample is taken by the purchaser and sent to the livestock laboratory. Since the tag identifies the farm and herd from where the animal was sold, a test can be credited.

This means that herds can be checked without on-farm tests. Needless to say, this saves time, manpower, and money. Bell County has been certified as a "Brucellosis Free Area" through the use of backtagging, and the milk ring test. Plans call for the State to be eligible for this classification by the end of 1969.

A good health program is a vital part of the livestock industry. As the population grows and the demand for meat increases, the need for stronger livestock health regulations will be greater. If we continue in our present path, Kentucky should be in fine shape to meet the challenges of the future.

Combined Angus Field Day Held Recently

The joint Angus field day of the Kentucky and Ohio County Angus Associations was held recently at Parnell Garrison's Ken-Ten Angus Farm near Hickman, Kentucky. Garrison's farm borders the Kentucky-Tennessee state line.

A judging contest highlighted the event. Winner of the men's division was George Cooper, Humboldt, Tennessee. Dorothy Keeling, Mayfield, Kentucky, topped the ladies division and high scoring junior judge was Mark Moon, Fulton, Kentucky. Official contest judges were Dr. Dudley Arnett, University of Kentucky, Lexington and John Vaughn, Clinton, Kentucky.

The points to look for in a high quality beef animal were outlined in a type demonstration before the contest by K. A. Brown, field representative for the American Angus Association.

The afternoon program included a grooming demonstration by the Turner Brothers, Ted and Lewis from Hickman, Kentucky, and Tim from Covington, Tennessee, and a panel discussion on bull selection moderated by Kent Brown. Panel members were Dr. Arnett, Bill Bruckner, University of Tennessee extension specialist and W. C. Overholt, Memphis, Drivers Journal field representative.

Guest speaker was Bill Turner, Union City, Tennessee. He urged breeders to know about their cows individually and to apply the principles of genetics to provide better seed stock for the commercial industry. A good system of records, he emphasized, is necessary to accomplish this.

Everything's Shipshape
In Pleasure Craft's Galley

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

DON'T be a galley slave when you pull up anchor and take to the waves in your pleasure craft. Make cooking a breeze with one-dish meals that are short on preparation but long on flavor and enjoyment.

Stock the galley with staples, canned goods and some fresh onions and green peppers for multiple uses.

Remember to add a few versatile seasonings that will give simple meals a gourmet touch. Plan easy menus.

Soup For Lunch

For lunch, try hot and hearty Seagoing Soup. It is canned cream of mushroom soup with canned luncheon meat and canned beans added to make it filling.

A good choice for a one-dish dinner is Captain's Special, a skillet based on Swiss steak and canned vegetables spiced with Tabasco.

If friends are climbing aboard for a party, whip up a hero-size tuna sandwich for a tasty conversation piece.

The tuna, which is teamed with sour cream, mayonnaise, olives and seasonings, is served in a scooped-out long.

leaf of Italian bread that looks like a schooner when you tack paper "sails" onto its celery "masts".

SEAGOING SOUP

1/2 tsp. curry powder
1/2 tsp. Tabasco
1/2 tsp. salt
1 (10 1/2 oz.) can cream of mushroom soup
Milk
1 (12 oz.) can luncheon meat, cubed
1 (20 oz.) can cannellini beans, drained

Blend curry powder, Tabasco, salt and cream of mushroom soup. Stir in 1/2 cup can of milk; heat.

Add luncheon meat and beans; reheat. Garnish with diced green pepper, parsley or chives, if desired.

CAPTAIN'S SPECIAL

2 lb. round or rump steak, 1 1/2 in. thick
Instant meat tenderizer
2 tbsp. salad oil
1 (1 lb.) can tomatoes
3 onions, sliced
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. Tabasco
1/2 tsp. sugar
2 (12 oz.) cans whole

A TUNA SCHOONER sails into the party. Hull is a scooped-out loaf of Italian bread. Masts are trim stalks of celery.

kernel corn
1 green pepper, sliced
Trim excess fat from steak. Sprinkle tenderizer on meat, according to pkg. directions. In salad oil in heavy skillet, brown steak well, about 10

min. on each side.
Add tomatoes, onions, salt, Tabasco and sugar; cover and simmer 45 min. or until fork-tender.

Add corn; garnish with green pepper. Simmer 10 min. or until heated through.

TUNA SCHOONER

1/2 c. sour cream
1/2 c. mayonnaise
1/2 tsp. monosodium glutamate
1/2 tsp. Tabasco
2 (8 1/2 to 7 oz.) cans tuna in vegetable oil
1/2 c. sliced, pitted, ripe olives
1 c. chopped celery
1 loaf Italian bread
2 long celery stalks

In mixing bowl, combine sour cream, mayonnaise, monosodium glutamate and Tabasco. Add tuna, ripe olives and celery.

Toss.
Place bread on board, bottom-side up. Cut out a wedge-shaped oval, cutting 1/2 in. from the edge. Remove wedge, leaving "hull" of the boat.

Trim celery stalks. Cut lengthwise slit through each stalk 3 in. from bottom and 1/2 in. from top for "masts" of boat. Insert each in slit in boat to make "masts".

Fill tuna mixture into the boat. Make paper "sails" and insert in slits in the "masts".

WHAT'S COOKING in the galley? Two easy-to-prepare recipes. Seagoing Soup is a flavorful mixture of canned ingredients. Captain's Skillet is a tasty but simple one-dish meal.
